RUSSIAN RETREAT.

The Main Force of Gen. Kuropatkin is Being Rapidly Moved to the North.

A SKELETON FORCE REMAINS.

Rolling Stock is Being Rushed South Empty For the Removal of Troops at Liao Yang.

Lieut. Gen. Count Keller Was Killed By a Bursting Shell During the Battle Near Liao Yang On July 29.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—Although public attention has been distracted from the events of the war during the past week, first because of the fear of international complications, and second, because of the assassination of Minister of the Interior Von Plehve, the situation at the front is regarded as critical.

The enveloping movement of the three Japanese armies of Gen. Kuroki, Nodzu and Oku around Gen. Kuropatkin's position appears to be almost complete, and the extended line of the Japanese seems to be the only drawback to concerted action. It is realized here that the Russian general must now either fight or withdraw the whole army northward. He is being closely pressed at Hai Cheng. At that place Gen. Kuroki's northern column makes it extremely dangerous to remain there, because, while holding the position to give battle against the Japanese, whose advance is notoriously slow and careful, Gen. Kuroki might pass through and cut his railway communications to Liao Yang.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 2.—A report from an apparently reliable source late Monday night was to the effect that Gen. Kuropatkin's main force had been rapidly moving north for several days.

According to this report no troops proceeded to the front from Russia last night. The main force of the Japanese army was reported to have been rapidly moving north for several days.

The report of the Russian general's death is confirmed. He was killed July 29, while resisting the preliminary attack of Gen. Kuroki's army on the Yankou pass, 30 miles east of Liao Yang. The general was standing near a battery which was subjected to a terrific fire when a shell burst close to him and he fell, mortally wounded, dying 20 minutes later. Before he expired Gen. Keller had the satisfaction of knowing that the Japanese attack had been repelled.

The greatest anxiety prevails here for news of the general advance against the southern and eastern positions of Gen. Kuropatkin's army. The public believes that the decisive battle of the campaign is being fought but this has not yet been established. Indeed, a press correspondent hears from the nearest military attaches in St. Petersburg that for several days the main body of the Russian army has been moving towards Mukden and that when the present line to the southeast is forced the Japanese will find that they have only crushed the shell.

Should this prove to be so, Gen. Kuropatkin will doubtless be obliged to destroy the immense quantity of stores accumulated at Liao Yang. Shrewd military critics, however, do not believe that Gen. Kuropatkin can escape a general engagement. His army forms a wedge with Gen. Oku hammering away at the point and Gen. Nodzu and Kuroki operating with driving movements of great force against the sides. If one of the latter should break through the southern force would be doomed.

The general staff seems amazed at the immense strength of these co-operating Japanese armies. The Japanese evidently have succeeded in concealing the real number of their men and guns which the general staff now believes must be in excess of 300,000 men with between 300 and 400 guns.

IS GUEST OF PICKPOCKETS

Visitor in "Select Circle" Loses Only Hypodermic Syringe and Morphine Supply.

A curious story is told in the London Chronicle about a dabbler in literature who has been studying the criminal classes at first hand, and succeeded in obtaining an introduction to "a select circle of clever pickpockets," with a regular meeting place of their own. The first time he shared one of the "social evenings" of this group he carried nothing in his pockets except a bottle of morphine and a hypodermic syringe. He hastened back to the house and begged the member of the club with whom he was best acquainted to get the missing treasures restored. But he was too late; he was shown the fragments of the bottle and the syringe. The men liked him, and knowing his weakness, had decided one of their number to prevent him gratifying his morbid desire, at any rate for that one night.

TERRIER ATTACKS A LION.

Recent Exploring Expedition in Africa Marked by Some Thrilling Experiences.

A recent exploring expedition along the boundaries of British East Africa killed 39 lions and had some thrilling adventures. Capt. Maund, who was in command, writes in the Philadelphia Inquirer: "Baird had a few days before been mauled by a lion. The brute charged out from a patch of brush and Baird's shot failed to stop him. The next moment the lion had knocked him down and was mauling him. Baird's fox terrier James, which had hitherto had a well-merited reputation for discretion, performed prodigies of valor and positively found his way into the lion's mouth. But he was not the lion's master's taste, and was ejected, strangely enough, with little hurt. "Meanwhile Baird's two shikaris behaved splendidly. One caught the lion by the tail and pulled, while the other very coolly shot him through the heart. Baird had several wounds, some of them deep, but the miracle of his escape as well as that of James was explained when it was seen that the lion's jaw had been broken by Baird's first shot."

According to this report no troops proceeded to the front from Russia last night. The main force of the Japanese army was reported to have been rapidly moving north for several days.

PAPERS HAVE ODD NAMES.

Russian Publications Are Not Blessed with Very Businesslike Cognomens.

The strange thing about Russia's popular papers is their curious names. declares the Boston Herald. Strelka (Grasshopper), Babochka (Butterfly), Zvezdina (The Star), Vostok (The East), and some names of popular publications. A paper which was started in Moscow some years ago was christened Boleslavsk. Tchernykh (The Black) was the name of another Russian popular paper have as a rule, small cognomens. Like the daily press, they are subject to the censor, who stops the sale for a time or altogether if, in trying to be funny, anything offensive to the authorities is allowed to appear. Many papers are subject to what is known as the "preventive censor," that is, the editor must submit everything to the authorities before publication. A censor who allows any seditious anti-governmental hint to escape is dismissed from his post for neglect; but this does not prevent the editor also being punished.

CHINESE DOGS WERE WISE

Oriental Minister Tells Story of Craftiness Shown by Three Canines.

Prince Pu Lun and the Chinese minister, Sir Chenchung Liang Cheng, attended the races at Gravesend. A number of New Yorkers were presented to the distinguished foreigners, and one of them told an incident that illustrated the remarkable intelligence of a dog of his. The minister said, with a smile: "I remember, sir, of a Chinese dog story. There was a Chinese dog who had three dogs. When he came home one evening he found them asleep on his couch of oakwood and marble. He whipped them and drove them forth. The next night, when he came home, the dogs were lying on the floor. But he gave them a slap on the head and found them warm from their bodies. Therefore he gave them another whipping. The third night, returning earlier than usual, he found the dogs sitting before the couch, blowing on it to cool it."

For Winter Use.

In Cashmere there is a novel method of putting up fodder for winter use. The country lies in a valley among the Himalayas. The chief industry of the people consists in growing dry wood, and in making this into fabrics which have carried the name of the country all over the world. As in winter snow lies some five or six days deep, supplies of hay are hung among the branches of the trees, where they are easily reached by the flocks of sheep.

Old at Birth.

A Chinese child is considered a year old at its birth, and its age is reckoned not from its birthdays, but from its New Year's days. If it happens to be born on February 1, the day before Chinese New Year's day, it is said to be two years old when it is two days old. It is one year old when born, and another year is added on its first New Year's day.

RIOTS IN CHICAGO.

Police Had to Use Their Clubs Against Strike Sympathizers Monday Afternoon.

NON-UNION MAN BADLY BEATEN.

Rioters Stoned the Deering Street Police Station For a Quarter of an Hour in Evening.

The Officers Battled With the Angry Crowd of 2,000 Men and Women As It Charged the Building Repeatedly.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Both the packers and the strikers spent Sunday in strengthening any weak spots that could be found in their defenses preparatory to another week of effort to bring their opponents to terms. Notwithstanding that it was Sunday, all the plants here operated during the forenoon in order to get out of the strike that had been set over from last week. The remainder of the day was spent by the employers in installing new men in the strikers' places and arranging many of the small details which had been overlooked last week during the heat of the conflict. Over 1,000 new men were added Sunday to the number already at work in the different plants. Among Sunday's arrivals were many skilled laborers, something the packers have been sad in need of ever since the strike started.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—A fight in which a squad of police, summoned by a riot call, had to use their clubs against strike-sympathizers occurred Monday afternoon in an alley near the yards. The police won the day and took into custody two of the men who had beaten George Guaschi, a strike breaker, so badly that his life is despaired of. The crowd hurled stones and sticks at the police when the two members of the mob were arrested, but none of the police were hurt.

Rioters, stoned the Deering street police station late Monday night and for a quarter of an hour the police battled with the crowd of 2,000 men and women as it charged the station repeatedly with sticks and stones, shouting vengeance against the police.

The trouble started when the police went to the assistance of Frank Castellano, a strike breaker, employed in the stockyards, who had been dragged from a street car and severely beaten. Before the police could reach Castellano he had fired four shots from a revolver at his assailants. One of the bullets took effect in John Sherry's arm. The mob, already in an angry mood, became infuriated when they saw that their companions had been shot. At least a hundred men made a rush for Castellano, but he was rescued by the police. The police station was only two blocks away and Castellano was taken there for safety. Seeing that their intended victim had escaped, the rioters determined to wreck the station. Stones and bricks by the hundred were hurled at the building and all the windows in the place were broken. A charge after charge was made by the police and the rioters were driven back only by the strenuous use of clubs. These charges by the police had little effect, for as soon as the police would return to the station, the crowd would again gather with a fresh supply of missiles and make another attack on the place. Nearly a dozen times the police sallied forth and charged the crowd with clubs before the rioters were dispersed. In one of these charges three policemen were injured with bricks. At least 50 rioters were cut about the head in the hand-to-hand conflicts with the police before they finally became subdued.

THE SMOOT INVESTIGATION.

It Will Be Continued in Utah Soon After the Election.

Keopue, N. V., July 30.—Senator Fred Dubois, a member of the committee on privileges and elections, which conducted the investigation of the protests against Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, retaining his seat in the senate, announced today that the investigation will be continued in Utah soon after election. It is likely that the committee will also visit Mormon settlements in Idaho, where special inquiry will be made into the subject of church domination of politics. The investigation was started early in the last session of congress and continued until adjournment.

DENIED BURIAL IN SIBERIA.

Body of Unfortunate Killed on Railroad Trains 11,000 Miles—Not Yet Interred.

The unidentified body of a man killed on the Trans-Siberian railroad near Tomsk last summer is still unburied. He was believed to have come from Irkutsk, whether the body was sent, only to be returned to Tomsk by the police. Once more it was sent to Irkutsk and on the way it was found by the police as being unknown in that town. Innumerable telegrams were sent and replied to, no town would receive the body, which was sent neither and thither by railway, always being returned to Tomsk. At last it was offered to the Anatomical museum at Tomsk, where it was preserved for nine months, no one daring to dissect it without permission from the higher government. Now the museum is being rebuilt and the body has been once more handed over to the Tomsk police. They again refuse to bury it without the documents which nothing can be done in Russia, and the unhappy body, which is said to have already traveled over 11,000 miles, is once more upon its unending travels.

CURE FOR VARICOSE VEINS

French Physician Finds That Walking Is an Almost Infallible Remedy.

Dr. Marchais, of the Paris hospitals, has just submitted the French Academy of Medicine a somewhat novel treatment for the cure of varicose veins in the legs. He had observed that among rural porters, obliged to go long distances on foot, there were few men who suffer from varicose veins and those who had varicose veins quickly recovered from them. Now, as a rule, patients with varicose veins are advised to walk as little as possible, but Dr. Marchais has changed all this and as the result of experiments he has successfully carried out on 21 patients he asserts that the most effective cure for varicose veins in the legs consists of walking. He shows that, in order to obtain lasting results, it is necessary to go back to the cause of the affliction, which is the hypertension of the blood in the veins. It is, he says, possible to cure those badly afflicted to cure themselves by rational daily walking exercises, preceded by massage of the legs.

SAILOR SOLVES A PUZZLE.

Tells How Birds in Midcean Get Fresh Water During Rain Storms.

"When I was a cabin boy," said an elderly sailor to a Portland Oregonian, "I often used to wonder, seen birds thousands of miles out to sea, what they done for fresh water when they got thirsty. One day a squall answered that question for me. It was a hot and glittering day in the tropics, and in the clear sky overhead a black rain cloud appeared all of a sudden. Then, out of empty space over a hundred seabirds came darting from every direction. They got under the rain cloud and they waited there for about ten minutes, circling round and round, and when the rain began to fall they threw their heads back and they drank their fill. In the tropics, where the great seabirds sail thousands of miles away from shore, they get their drink of water in that way. They sail out a storm a long way off; they travel a hundred miles, maybe, to get under it, and they swallow enough raindrops to keep them going."

CATARRH OF STOMACH

Makes Women Weak and Nervous.

MRS. M. MCGOUGH

Mrs. M. McGough, President of the East Side Ladies' Aid Society, an organization interested in benevolent enterprise and charity work, writes from 219 West 3rd street, New York:

"I gladly add my mite of praise to Peruna for what it has done for me. Two years ago a depressed feeling took hold of me. My back and sides ached continually. My stomach got out of order so that at times it couldn't hold a glass of cold water. I didn't like to eat, afraid that it would make me sick to my stomach."

"I have been using Peruna for the past three months and now I feel as well as I ever did. My stomach is as strong as ever and my nervous troubles have disappeared. I keep recommending Peruna to my friends who are troubled as I was, and have been thanked for doing so."

A CONTINUAL STRAIN.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some physical or mental trouble. It wears and distresses them, both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, loss of vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this continual strain, but they can remedy its health-destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, restores healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain."
